Daniel Colón Ramos is an associate professor of cellular neuroscience at Yale University and co-founder of Ciencia Puerto Rico. (Archivo)

Daniel Colón Ramos, Professor at Yale University and co-founder of Ciencia Puerto Rico, participated in a forum organized by the National Academies in Washington, DC. During the event Daniel explained the importance of communicating the science to the public, especially in Puerto Rico. Giovanna Guerrero, executive director of CienciaPR, also attended the event.