To advocate and promote the creation of more and better Spanish-language science, health and technology content, Marga Gual Soler [3], Ivan Fernando Gonzalez [4], Luis Quevedo [5] and yours truly [6] —all members of CienciaPR [7]—created Red Comuniciencia [8]. Red Comuniciencia is a community of Spanish-language science, health and technology communicators based in North America.

In a post published on Scientific American [9]'s new blog "Voices [10]", we present our vision of why we need more and better Spanish-language science, health and technology content in the media, particularly Spanish-language media. To meet this need we believe it is imperative to build a network, a critical mass of communicators that can create more, better, accessible and relevant Spanish-language science content.
