We are requesting aesthetically pleasing scientific images generated by CienciaPR users. The images will be used for the CienciaPR webpage and its future newsletters. Don't miss this great chance to show your creative side and let other CienciaPR users learn what you are working on! Submit your images today to Daniel Colón-Ramos at dacr@stanford.edu [2]. Note: Images should be of a resolution of 240 pixels/inch, but a higher resolution (300 pixels/inch) would be better. Please include a word file containing your name and email, a brief description of the image, a title, date it was shot, and a brief description about yourself.
