James, I've been thinking and I think it makes the most sense to integrate a Map into the User Search so that the search results come out both in a map view and in a paged list of users, with the users on top and the map below. I was looking into it and I think you can add a second view to the pager and have it follow the same contextual filters as the top view. Can this be done? Please call me if you have questions about this or need to discuss...
